“ Craig was my neighbor and became a very dear friend to me. Although I had only gotten to be around him a couple years, he had such a contagious smile and so welcoming to my family...it felt like I had known him my entire life. He was a very loving husband to Cindy and you could easily tell that those two had a very special bond that nobody could ever come between. We had shared lots of laughs and he was wonderful to my family. I don't know which story has made me laugh the hardest...if its the day he first met my dog blue while he was spraying off the car and blue grabbed the water hose or the day he walked outside and seen over 150 flamingos on the neighbor yard and for some reason I instantly became the prime suspect! Though he was right..he coined me the flamingo queen and I will forever cherish those memories and carry that name with me for life. Cindy, Hershel and family..words cant express how sorry I am for you guys. To say thay life has been rough for you guys here recently would be an understatement. I do have faith that both Glenna and Craig are both watching over you guys. I believe heaven welcomed two angels and I am so grateful that I got to have had both of them in my life.

“ I have lost the love of my life. He would make me laugh when I needed it most, finish my sentences because we were just that close. My life will be incomplete but I will carry his memory with me forever. I will be with you in heaven my love.
